27. Other important terms

We may transfer this contract to someone else. We may transfer our rights and obligations under these terms to another organisation. We will always tell you in writing if this happens and we will ensure that the transfer will not affect your rights under the contract.

If a court finds part of this contract illegal, the rest will continue in force. Each of the paragraphs of these terms operates separately. If any court or relevant authority decides that any of them are unlawful, the remaining paragraphs will remain in full force and effect.

Even if we delay in enforcing this contract, we can still enforce it later. If we do not insist immediately that you do anything you are required to do under these terms, or, if we delay in taking steps against you in respect of your breaking this contract, that will not mean that you do not have to do those things and it will not prevent us taking steps against you at a later date.

Which laws apply to this contract and where you may bring legal proceedings. These terms are governed by English law and you can bring legal proceedings in respect of the services and/or products in the English courts.

28. Data protection notice

Your data is important to us. By applying for a funeral plan, you agree to the Heart of England Co-operative using your personal details for the purpose of managing this plan on your behalf. Your personal information will be shared with third parties relevant to the plan, including Royal London Mutual.

29. General

These terms and conditions, together with the brochure, key features document and your application form make up the arrangement between the applicant and the Heart of England Co-op concerning the selected plan and the funeral arrangements. They do not affect the rights you have as a consumer buying products and services.

You consent that this agreement can only be transferred to the plan holder in the event of the applicant's death or if the applicant and plan holder both request a transfer in writing to us, along with the relevant documentation. No other person (including the plan holder if this is not the applicant or their representatives) has any right under the Contracts (Rights of Third Parties) Act 1999 to enforce any term of this agreement. This doesn't affect any other rights these people may have. If any part of this agreement is not effective the rest of the agreement will still apply. English law applies to this agreement.

The passage of time and changes in personal circumstances may affect the availability of certain arrangement products or services, such as coffin type, location of cemetery or services. If this happens we would provide reasonable alternative places, products or services. Products may vary slightly from their pictures as the images of the products in our brochures and on our website are for illustrative purpose only. Although we have made every effort to display the colours accurately, we cannot guarantee that all products shown reflect the colour of the actual products when delivered. Your products may vary slightly from those images.

If any funeral requests have been recorded with us, these will be passed on to the funeral director at the time of arranging the funeral. Funeral requests are not part of your plan benefits and the funeral director cannot guarantee to carry them out. Neither we, nor the funeral director, are liable for the provision or costs (if any) of the stated funeral requests. Any additional costs will be notified to the funeral plan holder's representative at the prevailing price at the time of arranging the funeral, and payment will be required before the services can be provided. Funeral requests can be completed in conjunction with your funeral plan or as a standalone request.
