

Your Guide to our
Urn
Range

The Urn Range

The ashes of a loved one can either be scattered, buried or kept by friends and family.

For those who decide to keep the ashes, there are an increasing amount of options available. Alongside keeping ashes in an urn, people are also choosing to enclose ashes in jewellery, to keep ashes inside keepsake ornaments.

When it comes to scattering ashes, people are giving more thought to the choice of location, looking to make a connection between the place and the person. Ashes can be scattered in private ceremonies involving family and friends choosing woodland areas or beauty spots with some personal meaning to the individual. With this in mind, a scatter tube will be the most appropriate.

Every individual is unique so having a variety of designs available really makes a difference.

The Ashes Register is a free, user-friendly online platform supported by leading cremation organisations. It enables you to record and map the final resting place of your loved one's ashes, ensuring their memory is preserved for future generations. You can find out more by logging onto the Ashes Register Homepage.

Sikh Khanda Water Urn

Khanda Sikh Water Urn. Made of a clay material with a vegetable gel bond. Designed to dissolve completely in water, a stylish design that is perfect for a Sikh Water Ceremony.

You can place the sealed urn directly into the water. However the lid doesn't have to be sealed, so you can pour the ashes directly onto the water then place the urn into the water too, if you prefer. The urns have holes in the bottom to allow water to enter quickly so that they gracefully sink when placed into water.

The Khanda is the symbol of the Sikh faith. It is constructed of three symbols:

- A double-edged khanda sword in the centre
- A chakkar a steel ring used in battle – the circle in the middle
- Two single-edged swords, or kirpan, crossed at the bottom

Each urn comes with a biodegradable ashes bag, this makes transferring the ashes into the urn a little easier. It also comes with glue so that you can securely seal the urn.

Perfectly designed for a water burial in the sea, a lake or river.

Hindu – Om Water Urn

Hindu Om Water Urn. Made of a clay material with a vegetable gel bond. Designed to dissolve completely in water, a stylish design that is perfect for a Hindu Water Ceremony. You can place the sealed urn directly into the water. However the lid doesn't have to be sealed, so you can pour the ashes directly onto the water then place the urn into the water too, if you prefer. The urns have holes in the bottom to allow water to enter quickly so that they gracefully sink when placed into water.

The Lotus Om Flower design with its wonderful symbolism is engraved into the lid.

Each urn comes with a biodegradable ashes bag, this makes transferring the ashes into the urn a little easier. It also comes with glue so that you can securely seal the urn.

Perfectly designed for a water burial in the sea, a lake or river.

Rock Salt Water Urn

The Rock Salt Water Urn is a beautifully handcrafted urn, carved from natural Himalayan rock salt. Each urn features stunning, naturally occurring swirls of terracotta and white tones, created by mineral deposits formed over 250 million years ago. No two urns are the same, making every farewell uniquely personal. These urns are specifically designed for water burial ceremonies. Thanks to the natural weight of the salt, the urn will sink immediately when placed in water. Once submerged, it begins to dissolve quickly and gracefully, releasing the ashes back into nature in a peaceful and symbolic way.

- Made from natural Himalayan rock salt – each urn is entirely unique
- 100% biodegradable, ideal for sea, lake or river burial
